

It was expected the coroner would report on the cause of death. Centralia was quiet today and Judge George Dwyer said citizens had promised to let the law take its course. "I wish," said Judge Dwyer, "that every I. W. W. arrested would be given a quick and just trial," said Judge Dwyer. "The former soldiers promised to aid officials in the men."

Henry M. White, United States immigration commissioner, was reported on route to Centralia to investigate the records of all alien I. W. W. held and endeavor to deport them if they are not held in connection with the shooting.

Say Lynched Man Had Record "Berk" Smith, who was lynched, was reported by officials to have a police record in Washington. During the war it was said Smith caused trouble in western lumber camps and a lumber company wrote to a patriotic organization that Smith was a menace and asked that he be arrested.

Two groups of former soldiers, most of them members of the American legion, under leadership of Captain Lloyd Dwyer, a Centralia war veteran, returned here tonight from Mendota, a coal and logging town near Phoenix where they searched for industrial workers believed to have escaped after the shooting yesterday. They had in custody P. J. Nolin and another man whose name was not learned.

Charles Beckham, constable at Chandler, was bound over to the superior court yesterday afternoon by Judge Wheeler, charged with violation of Section 134 of the penal code, which concerns the "wilful inhumanity or oppression toward any prisoner in an officer's custody." Beckham is alleged to have mistreated Crispin Rubalcaba, a Mexican, by cutting a heavy mesquite staff which was used by O. H. Kuncie, a Chandler cotton rancher, by means likely to produce bodily injury. If found guilty of the offense, which is a high misdemeanor, Beckham may face the maximum penalty of $2000 fine and dismissal from office.

A broad variety of subjects, including the Centralia tragedy, industrial unrest and the national non-partisan league were touched upon. Delegates from northwest states drew up a resolution annulling the activities of President A. C. Townsend of the non-partisan league, but it was tabled by a vote of the convention. The request was made by Jack Sullivan of Seattle, chairman of the committee. Shortly before the final adjournment of the American legion convention tonight, five vice presidents were elected. They are: Allen A. Tukey, Omaha; James O'Brien, San Diego; J. P. Lewis, Long Prairie, Minn.; A. R. Chambers, Winthrop, Mass.; and William H. Follette, Eugene, Oregon.

NOW GREAT GRANDFATHER WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Former Speaker Cannon of Illinois, became a great grandfather today. The announcement made in the house by Representative Madden, was greeted with applause.

Big Days In Chandler

Chandler and vicinity is advancing the most rapidly of any section in the valley. Land values are soaring every day. However, we still have a multitude of bargains of the best to be had. Here are just a few:

- 10 ACRES fair improvements, close in, $275 per acre.
- 20 ACRES excellent soil and improvements, $435 per acre.
- 40 ACRES all old alfalfa land, $337.50 per acre.
- 60 ACRES in old alfalfa, well improved, $350 per acre.
- 80 ACRES excellent improvements, 1 mile from Chandler, $350 per acre.

TEACHERS CALLED IN TO MAKE GOOD BEFORE OFFICIALS

State educational authorities are reported expressing some concern for the outcome of the teacher's examinations that are scheduled for the first Monday and Tuesday of December at the various county seats when a large number of teachers now holding temporary certificates will be called upon to make good.

At the office of the state board of public instruction yesterday it was reported that approximately 2000 teachers and principals are employed by the state schools at this time. In the absence of data concerning the probable number of teachers who will fail to pass in the coming examinations, official statements on the situation were postponed until a later time.

When questioned about what would be done in case necessity arose suddenly to fill a large number of positions, Deputy Superintendent Frank Kyles frankly admitted that such a problem would have to be settled the best way possible as the old days when every school board had a long waiting list of teachers are long since passed. The demand for teacher's jobs is said to be practically nil, or even less than that, and it is said also that many applicants for kindergarten and primary grades have difficulty in being put on their alphabetical list as required in the best interests of tiny tots.

Some of the school jobs, according to the record, pay "fat" salaries, the principal of a school in Graham county receiving $35 a month. Offsetting that, the records have reports of teachers in some instances receiving salaries as high as $2400 a year, but those instances are not exactly general as the reports indicate.

Charles Beckham, constable at Chandler, was bound over to the superior court yesterday afternoon by Judge Wheeler, charged with violation of Section 134 of the penal code, which concerns the "wilful inhumanity or oppression toward any prisoner in an officer's custody."

46,000 BALES OF COTTON IN 1919, OUTLOOK

Government Agent Reports on Crop in Arizona; Corn Yield Larger Than Last Year; Surplus of Pasture

The present outlook for cotton in Arizona for 1919 is a production of 46,000 bales of American Egyptian and 24,000 bales of short staple, as against 26,000 and 20,000 bales, respectively last year, L. M. Harrison, Arizona field agent of the department of agriculture, stated yesterday in his report for November.

The average corn yield for Arizona this year is 35 bushels an acre or a total production of 1,131,000 bushels, against 32,000 bushels last year. The report on potatoes is not favorable due to blight and wet weather. The average yield in grain sorghums over the state is 35 bushels an acre and the total 2,530,000 bushels, as against an average of 28 bushels last year and a total of 1,624,000 bushels.

Cotton: Production continues under favorable conditions. The present outlook is for a crop of 46,000 bales of American-Egyptian, and 24,000 bales of short staple. Last year the production of American-Egyptian was 26,000 bales, and of short staple 20,000 bales. For the United States the estimated production is 10,996,000 bales, compared with 11,700,000 bales last year.

Corn: The average yield for the state is estimated at 35 bushels, and the total production at 1,131,000 bushels, which compares with 32,000 bushels last year, and 864,000 bushels two years ago. Apache county reports an average yield of 18 bushels. Navajo, 17; Yavapai, 38; Coconino, 20; Pima, 40; Graham, 37; Greenlee, 45; Pinal, 35; and Santa Cruz, 31. For the United States the total production is placed at 2,530,000 bushels, which compares with 2,532,314 bushels last year, and 3,160,000 bushels two years ago.

Potatoes: Owing to wet weather and blight, the crop was very poor, the average yield being 70 bushels per acre. This compares with 85 bushels last year, and 105 bushels two years ago. The total production is placed at 350,000 bushels, which is 75,000 bushels less than was produced last year. The United States production is estimated at 352,000,000 bushels, compared with 402,106,000 bushels last year, and 442,108,000 bushels two years ago.

Grain Sorghums: The average yield for the state is estimated at 35 bushels, and the total production of 2,530,000 bushels. Last year the average yield was 28 bushels, and the total production 1,624,000 bushels. County estimates of the average yield per acre are as follows: Maricopa, 40 bushels; Pinal, 45; Pima, 40; Santa Cruz, 35; Yuma, 45; Graham, 39; Cochise, 37; Apache, 30; and Yavapai, 26. For the United States the total production is placed at 12,500,000 bushels, compared with 12,500,000 bushels last year.

Pasture: The livestock ranges continue in excellent condition. There is surplus of range feed in many counties.

Following the supreme court's refusal last yesterday to grant a writ of prohibition applied for by Governor Thomas E. Campbell and Adjutant General Walter S. Ingalls against Judge R. C. Stanford concerning the calendared hearing today of the quo warranto proceedings brought against them by Col. Charles W. Harris, announcement was made that the hearing will be called at 9:30 a. m. today at Judge Stanford's court at 9:30 a. m. today as scheduled.

The proceedings are in connection with the disputed office of the adjutant general in this state, Colonel Harris being the former incumbent and maintaining that he is still entitled to the office on the ground that Ingalls' appointment by Governor Campbell was illegal.

W. E. Ryan, as counsel for the governor and Ingalls, yesterday filed the application for the writ of prohibition, his action being regarded at the capitol as a clever coup in the contest that has been waged for the office. Five reasons were advanced by Ryan as grounds for the granting of the writ of prohibition, a preliminary step being that the case at issue is beyond the jurisdiction of the court concerned.

The supreme court decided to refrain from action on the application for the writ, intimating that it would prefer to consider the case after it brought under appeal. The legal aspects of the case, at this time, were not gone into by the supreme court.

Representatives have already been appointed from most of the clubs, societies, lodges, churches, etc., and all organizations not already affiliated are urged to send a representative to this meeting. Every one, whether or not a representative of an organization, who is interested in this movement, is cordially invited to attend.

Boys and Girls Can't Drive To School Any More

Driving to school in a motor car is not considered the proper thing by John D. Loper, city superintendent of schools, who has placed the ban on youngsters driving their machines to school.

Only one day did the girls and boys enjoy the privilege of motoring to the Monroe school and parking their cars on the grounds. Then came the order.

"Leave your cars at home," the children were told, and told in such a manner that the order has not been violated. Neither has there been a decrease in attendance, for the young folk have been driven to school by their parents, have come on bicycles or have walked.

The school authorities refuse to state why the order was made. They decline to give out any information at all on the subject, and whether joy rides may have been in the minds of the teachers when they reported the matter to the head of the schools could not be learned.

There's another reason, too, which might have been advanced. Both the city and state laws prohibit the driving of an automobile by anyone under the age of 16. While the law is constantly being violated, the schools perhaps did not wish to become a party to the violation of the statutes.

CITY TO GIVE LEGION POST $30,000 HOME

Informal Announcement of City's Intention of Giving Permanent Headquarters Is Made at Post Meeting

Substantial recognition for the part that the Phoenix members of the American Legion took in the big war is being taken by the city, according to last night's records of the meeting of Frank Luke Post No. 1, City Manager Avery Thompson furnishing the post with advance notice that the city was arranging to give the post a permanent $20,000 home.

Adjutant L. W. Peters, of the post, on instructions from City Manager Thompson, brought the tidings of official action on the gift as postponed by the post until the city's offer comes in formal shape, but Peters and several other members of the post stated that the completion of last night's meeting that nothing else was talked about and that the legion members are unanimous in their decision to accept the gift.

The property which the city proposes to turn over to the legion, on a 29 year lease, or lease or other similar arrangement to be decided later, is that known as the Pickrell or Judge Kent place, located on North Seventh avenue just north of Fifth avenue. It contains a large two-story brick house on a big lot, with plenty of shade. Rooms are available for meeting purposes, barracks for visiting members, hospital wards, general club features, and such other needs as the post may develop in its growth.

The money to purchase the property, estimated at approximately $20,000, is to be supplied from the proposed sale of the old west-end school property at Jefferson and Seventh streets. This same property that the city recently offered to the legion's state organization for similar purposes and which the state organization was not in a position to use.

The post is holding its meetings temporarily in the Goldberg hall, on Washington street, but the hall is to be required for other purposes soon. The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 25 at the hall.

After encountering more varieties of weather in six weeks than he has in six years in Phoenix, George Pilchard has returned from a visit to the east, principally in Baltimore and the eastern shore of Maryland. With him on his return Mr. Pilchard brought his mother, a 75-year-old, who will spend the winter here.

Mr. Pilchard reported that he enjoyed his trip as much as possible, and that he saw much beautiful country in his journey east and back. One of his greatest impressions, however, was the many beautiful railway stations throughout the country, many of them belonging to towns the size of Buckeye, but all vastly superior to those of Phoenix, with a population of nearly 40,000, can boast.

A distinguished artist, Adam Emory Albright, of Chicago, is visiting in the city and will probably make an extensive visit here and in the vicinity. He is a relative of J. A. Albright of this city. His pictures have appeared at many exhibitions in this country and Europe, at the Chicago exposition in 1893 and since in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, Buffalo, St. Louis, Chicago and the Paris Salon and the world's fair at San Francisco.

Mr. Albright is represented in permanent art collections in St. Louis and in the museum of art in Toledo and in various schools and clubs.

ESTABLISH LOCATORS RUSH OUT AND GO UP

News of Opening of Indian Reservations Gets Mixed—Several Stake Out Same Properties in Gila Land

Some hundreds of citizens of this valley and elsewhere in the state, all of them old timers, are rushing to the fields of West Virginia today to locate an old silver mine in the Estrella mountains, southwest of the city. The old mine lies about a mile and a half within the Gila River Indian reservation.

It is said that several locations have been put upon it since The Republic announced that the Indian reservation would be thrown open to the making of such locations. These announcements have been made by this journal with official sanction but The Republic has not been authorized to fix the date when the filings can be made.

Several Indians who have had their eyes upon it located it last Monday and other citizens of all colors have worn pathways up and down the mountains to the old mine.

It is sometimes called the Martinez mine. Shaft has been sunk to a depth of ninety feet but no work has been done on it for a generation. A man by the name of Martinez, though he did not open the property, took 20 tons of silver ore out of it more than 20 years ago before the building of the railroad to Maricopa. The ore brought $140 a ton at El Paso and that was when silver was worth less than it is now. There is a belief that there is a great deal of silver ore in the mine, but it is only a belief, for no one has been found who knows much more about it than has been recorded in stories of Martinez' achievement. No one knows how much worthless rock he had to take out to secure those three tons.

Supposed to be Gold There is also supposed to be a very valuable gold deposit somewhere in these mountains, but so far as is known, it was never seen by anyone except an old Indian who has probably departed to his fathers. He used to visit the mountains alone and bring out quantities of gold which he always sold at Irvine's store. A good many people tried to find out where he got it. His acquaintances being cultivated by several white men. In those days the morals of the Indian were not as carefully guarded by the government as it is now and the Indian consumed a great deal of free whiskey. It was the supposition, at least, the hope of his white friends who administered it, that he would arrive at a stage of mellowness in which he would loosen up. But they never caught him at that precise stage, either he was not quite drunk enough or else too drunk.

Then they resorted to the expedient of following him. They learned that he entered a certain gulch but he at ways managed to discover that he was being shadowed and stopped. His next move depended upon the state of mind he happened to be in. Sometimes he would sit down and wait and when an Indian makes up his mind to wait, he outdistances all other waiters. Sometimes this old Indian would get into a peevish mood, would point a rifle at his pursuers who always thereupon pointed for the mouth of the gulch.

But he got the gold somewhere for he sold a lot of it in Phoenix.

"WINNING OTHERS," EVANGELIST'S TEXT

Mr. Owen, the evangelist at the First M. E. church, spoke last night on "Winning Others." His text was taken from Psalm 51:12: "Then will I teach transgressors thy ways and sinners shall be converted unto thee." He said in part:

"The scriptures present three reasons why men should seek God. First, in order for their personal salvation. It is a mock selfishness, that calls upon a man to pass by the interests of his own soul. Second, in order that, being saved himself, he may be used for the winning of others. The law of the kingdom is that we shall know the truth and witness to the truth. A third reason is that we may be to the praise of His glory who hath redeemed us. Our text suggests the second of these reasons; that of winning others."

"The little word Then of the text may be regarded as an index finger pointing to obligation for seeking the salvation of men; to a preparation for the most effective service and to a condemnation if we are failing to do what we can for the winning of men. There is no need to argue the matter of obligation. To bring men to Jesus is the one work of the church and the one mission of the Christian. It is sin in the life that hinders a real earnestness for souls. Earnestness is convincing. Earnestness is eloquent. There is a work for us all to do. The responsibility belongs to you and me to teach and persuade; for there are transgressors in the way and sinners to be converted."

"There are four petitions in this Psalm that have to do with our preparation for the most effective service. They are these: 'Blot out my transgressions. Create in me a clean heart. Take not Thy holy spirit from me. Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation.' When transgressions are forgiven, when uncleanness is taken away, when the presence and power of the Spirit are known in the life, when there is in the heart a contagion of a real, a full, an abiding joy, then shall men take notice that we have been with Jesus."

"Blindness to opportunity, neglect of the greatest work given to man, that is our condemnation."

TRANSFERRED TO KENTUCKY SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 12.—Brigadier General P. C. Marshall, formerly commander of the Brownsville district, has gone to Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky. for station, according to Colonel A. E. Saxton, department adjutant. General Marshall will command a brigade of the division stationed at that camp.

OPEN CRUSADE AGAINST VILLAS EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 12.—General Manuel M. Diez, head of the Carranza forces in Chihuahua, is moving toward Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Texas, with a considerable body of troops, aeroplanes and motor trucks to inaugurate an "extermination" campaign against Villistas in that section, according to information received here tonight.

MINERS CHANGE PLANS

(Continued From Page One) obeying the order recalling the strike. From Terre Haute there was a report that the miners in that district were waiting the results of the conference in Washington before returning to work. A report from Bicknell called attention to omission from the order of the mine workers' officials of any instructions to return to work, and it was said district leaders were refraining from supplementing the general order in any way.

Miners Refuse to Resume Work

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Striking mine workers throughout the coal fields of West Virginia today failed to obey the orders of union leaders to return to work, according to a statement issued tonight by the West Virginia Coal association.

"Less than five per cent" of the miners in the state reported for work, it was said. Reports to the mine operators indicated that the men would not accept "telephone or mailed" instructions from the district headquarters. United Mine Workers, but demand "official notification" from the international officers at Indianapolis.

At the headquarters of the United Mine Workers here it was said tonight that the "utmost pressure" was being brought to bear on the men and confidence was expressed that all mines would be operating Monday.

TO HAVE FULL LABOR TICKET CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A national labor ticket for the coming presidential election will be nominated in Chicago by a convention that will meet November 22, John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, announced tonight. Twenty thousand delegates, representing the Non-Partisan League Farmers' organization; granger societies, state and local unions, are expected to attend, he said.

TEXT BOOKS BILLED HERE DO NOT COME

Text books billed out of Boston on October 1, have not been received in Phoenix, according to information given out at the school administration building yesterday relative to some 320 volumes for supplementary history work to be used in the public schools. While the children are supplied with text books, the fourth grade work in history is supplemented by the study of the books which were freighted west six weeks ago and have not yet arrived here.

The demand for the books has been insisted, but the school authorities are unable to state when the books will be checked up here as they have received no information other than that the shipment has been made.

SALESMAN DESERTS ROAD FOR PHOENIX

A. W. Harbold, who has been a resident of Phoenix for several years, has entered the real estate office of B. W. Getsinger, at 15 East Adams street, as a salesman.

Mr. Harbold is well known in Phoenix and over the state. For some time he has traveled through the southwest for a Los Angeles house, making his home in Phoenix. The increase in land values and the prosperity being enjoyed by the valley at the present time has tempted Mr. Harbold to quit the road and make his home in Phoenix all the time.

ANNOUNCE FUNERAL SERVICES

DAIRY TALKS

Don't let any real dairy cow leave the State. Dairy cows present potential possibilities for wealth production not equalled by anything else.

We have NOT urged that any REAL dairy cow be eliminated. We have merely pointed out that cattle bred for beef are not dairy cattle, and should not be so considered and utilized as such. As we have also pointed out, DAIRY COWS MUST BE BRED. Just "any old cow" IS NOT a milk cow, and a milk cow is not a good investment unless she produces milk with a satisfactory percentage of butter fat. This is only determined by thorough tests with a Babcock tester.

In view of market conditions of dairy products all over the world, prices will continue to be most satisfactory from the producers' point of view for a very long time, and as a matter of cold fact, the occupation of dairying will never again be the haphazard business of former years.

The dairyman and prospective dairyman will therefore plan ahead, laying the foundation of a high milk test herd by breeding only into recognized milk strains, and, as the herd increases, building from "both sides of the family" for butter fat production.

Not a single dairy cow in Arizona should leave the state. Buyers from the Imperial Valley and other parts of California tell us that good dairy cows are cheaper in Arizona than in other places, but none should be sold outside the state.

Farmers who are raising forage crops should investigate thoroughly the advisability of feeding their crops on the premises and taking their income from the sale of butter fat rather than from the fluctuating prices offered for their crops. Other men buy their crops, turn it into butter fat, and make a profit. Why should not the farmer, who raises the forage crops, make both profits? It can be done with a comparatively small investment in cows.

The long growing season in Arizona is peculiarly adapted to economical dairying, because of the fact that a forage crop can be raised on land that has already produced one income-paying crop for the year.

Let this department assist you in getting into the dairy business.

Our farm experts are practical men who "KNOW BY DOING" just how best to care for stock and arrange crops, buildings and all other farm matters. They will be glad to assist any farmer or dairyman free of charge.
